

Ulster's Share of New Deal's Debt Is Over Four Million Dollars

That is What the Eighty Thousand Residents of This County Will Have to Pay Toward the Expenses Incurred.

ELTING PRESIDES

Veteran Republican Chairman at Big Rally Quotes Some Interesting Figures.

Ulster county's share of the Roosevelt New Deal debt is over four and a half million dollars and that is what the 80,000 residents of this county will have to dig down into their own pockets to pay, according to Philip Elting, Republican county chairman, in talking at the big rally of the members and friends of the Republican Club in the Y. M. C. A. Auditorium on Thursday evening.

Other speakers at the rally were President John J. Schwenk of the Common Council, former County Attorney Robert G. Groves, Assistant District Attorney N. LeVan Haver and Ralph Seamon, a business man of New York city. An added attraction was the showing of movies taken at the big Republican gathering held at Tilton Lake this summer.

The pictures were taken by County Superintendent James F. Loughran, who also showed a series of scenes showing the county's snow removal equipment at work opening the highways following a heavy fall of snow.

President Schwenk was the first speaker of the evening and he made a stirring plea for the election of Landon and Knox this fall as the remedy for the ills that the New Deal has inflicted upon the country.

Attorney Groves attacked the administration of Governor Lehman and called attention to the crime conference called by the governor last summer, in which the governor was greatly interested, but the governor overlooked the election frauds that were right under his nose in Albany, so to speak, said Mr. Groves.

Nothing was done to correct that evil which has existed for several years past. The only way that the evil will be corrected is to elect Judge Bleakley, and when that is done there will be a general house-cleaning in Albany, Mr. Groves also urged that this fall voters vote the straight Republican ticket.

Ulster County Pays Tribute To Frank Brooks, H. R. De Witt and E. E. Ougheltree Thursday

Franco Says Bloodshed Fault of Red Officials

(By The Associated Press.)

Salamanca, Spain, Oct. 16.—Spanish bloodshed might have been prevented, Gen. Francisco Franco declared today, if the Madrid Socialist government "had not committed the terrible crime of arming the people against representatives of the national will."

The head of the Fascist provisional government and supreme commander of Fascist military forces outlined aims and principles of the insurgent movement at his army headquarters.

"The principal aim of the National (Fascist) movement was that of saving Spain from the ruin and destruction toward which roads of various shades were driving it," General Franco asserted.

"We must not forget we had already reached a point at which the unity of Spain as a nation no longer existed in fact. Law and order had ceased to prevail. The lives and property of citizens were at the mercy of ruffians whose crimes remain unpunished."

Several days ago Surrogate George F. Kaufman requested Supreme Court Justice Harry E. Schirck to set aside some time when tribute might be paid to the three prominent members of the Ulster County Bar Association, who had died since the last term of supreme court. Justice Schirck set Thursday afternoon as the time and the bar association was well represented when the services were begun at the opening of the afternoon session.

Andrew J. Cook, with the permission of the court, presented a resolution of tribute to the late Frank W. Brooks and in offering the resolution paid high tribute to Mr. Brooks as one of the most able attorneys ever to practice before the Ulster County Bar in part Mr. Cook said:

"Since the last term of court we have lost a great member of the Ulster County Bar, Frank W. Brooks, who died on August 1. We were all greatly grieved over his death. We had all observed his failing health but had hoped he might be spared to serve his clients for years. He knew he was afflicted with a serious ailment but he never gave up hope and even though he knew the seriousness of his illness when inquiry was made as to his health he always replied, 'I am feeling fine.' He continued his duties to the last and at his office even when his health was such that he ought not to have attempted to continue work."

Mr. Cook referred to the last time when Mr. Brooks appeared in court and attempted to try a case. "The spirit was willing but the flesh could not stand the strain," said Mr. Cook, and he said that this last endeavor of Mr. Brooks to serve his clients was indicative of his whole life, one of ardent service to his clients.

For the past quarter of a century he said Mr. Brooks had been a leading member of the bar and had gained a reputation not only in Ulster county and in the Third Judicial District but throughout the state as one of the keenest and ablest trial lawyers. "He was of unusually sound judgment, a wise counsel, conservative and not a victim of the hysteria of the time. He had vision and he never forgot a favor, and when he gave his word he always kept it. No member of the Ulster County Bar ever thought to take a stipulation when Frank W. Brooks had given his word," said Mr. Cook.

Mr. Cook spoke of the many kindnesses of deceased which were known only to himself and the recipient.

Held in Esteem
"No judge for the past quarter of a century ever had anything but esteem for him," said Mr. Cook. He referred to the large practice which Mr. Brooks had and of the rare ability and great success with which Mr. Brooks tried his cases.

"He was a worthy adversary. No matter how sure you were before trial you never knew when you would lose to him because of his skill and his great ability to try cases."

Reference was also made to the great obstacles which Mr. Brooks had overcome to attain the position which he held in the community and in legal circles.

"In his passing the Bar has lost a member who has left a glorious record, one to be remembered so long as his fellow members remain to bear testimony to him," said Mr. Cook in conclusion. He then offered the following resolution which was made a part of the court minutes and copies will be sent to the family of deceased.

Tribute to three deceased members of the Ulster County Bar was paid Thursday afternoon in Supreme Court when resolutions on the death of Frank W. Brooks, E. E. Ougheltree and Henry R. DeWitt were offered by members of the bar association and a number of the members of the bar paid personal tribute to the memory of the deceased members.

It is the painful duty of the members of the committee which has been appointed, to ask this Court to pause in its proceedings and consider the loss that has been sustained by our profession and by this community because of the death of our friend and fellow attorney, Frank W. Brooks.

There are many reasons why in this court we may fruitfully contemplate his career and join with those who grieve. As a lawyer he knew no peer. His practice at the bar disclosed that he was not merely abreast of the times but that he had advanced and was ahead of the times in which he had been educated. While he was inclined to engage in the stress and turmoil of the controversial work of the court, he was nevertheless a counselor and adviser to his clients and friends. He was jealous of the legal rights of his clients, assiduous in the preservation of those rights and he typified and exemplified in every respect that which a counselor is expected to be and should be. No greater certificate of his standing at the bar can be accorded to any of its members.

Perhaps no greater commentary could be made upon the character of the man than the short excerpt which appeared in an article in the Kingston Daily Freeman the day after his death.

Landon Changes Plan To Make an Address at Los Angeles on Tuesday

Surprise Shift of Strategy Sends Republican Presidential Candidate on Cross Country Swing Ending Campaign.

"TO CARRY IT"

Landon Predicts California Will Be in Republican Column in the November Election.

Topeka, Kas., Oct. 16 (AP)—A west coast dash to Los Angeles Tuesday was announced by Governor Alf M. Landon today in a surprise shift of strategy before winding up his presidential campaign with a cross continent swing.

From Los Angeles, the Republican nominee said he would speed eastward for speeches in Oklahoma City, Indianapolis, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, and New York.

"Why are you going to California?" reporters asked as his special train neared Topeka after a 2,400 mile lake states tour through Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Ohio.

"Because we're going to carry it," Landon replied, smiling as he rested from strenuous campaigning which included dozens of rear platform appearances and three major speeches.

The candidate sketched this itinerary for his final White House bid.

Leave Topeka, Sunday, October 18; speak in Los Angeles, Tuesday, October 20, remaining overnight; speak in Oklahoma City at a time still to be fixed, speak in Indianapolis, October 24, Philadelphia, October 26; Pittsburgh October 27; arrive in New York October 28 for an address in Madison Square Garden the night of Thursday, October 29, homeward bound, speak in St. Louis, Saturday, October 31.

Makes No Claims.
The governor made his announcement—as unexpected as the word that he would go to Maine—in a press conference aboard his train.

Reclining in the bedroom of his private car, Landon was asked "What is your impression of the attitude of the lake states now?"

"I do not want to make any campaign claims about particular states," he replied. "Leave those questions to John Hamilton."

Just then an aide brought in a telegram, and Landon, reading it, smiled and said, "Here's your story—'Los Angeles on the 20th.'"

The telegram, from National Chairman Hamilton, said plans had been completed for the nominee's closing campaign drive.

Landon added that he probably would leave Topeka Sunday night and not return to the Kansas capital before completion of the campaign. He will vote at his home town, Independence, Kas.

The governor declined to elaborate on his statement concerning California, which has 22 electoral votes. When reminded he just said he didn't want to claim individual states, Landon's reply was a grin.

Townsend Support.
Dr. Francis E. Townsend of California, leader of the $200 a month old age pension movement, recently stated he would vote for Landon because the name of Representative William Lemke, Union Party presidential candidate, will not appear on the California ballot.

Landon indicated the great distances between major speeches and the limited time remaining would preclude many rear platform addresses.

He closed his fourth major swing by telling Illinois farmers that President Roosevelt's "lip service to our system of free enterprise" conflicted with utterances of administration spokesmen who "would make of conspiracy a body to ratify the arbitrary actions of a one-man super-government."

"The president boasts that he has preserved our system of private enterprise," Landon said, referring to his opponent's Chicago speech Wednesday night.

"He points to the recovery of the last three and one-half years as justification of his policies which, he claims, do not threaten the American form of government."

Look At The Record.
"I say, let's look at the record. What recovery we have has come since the Supreme Court gave the country a real breathing spell from the President's 'must' legislation, based on the doctrine of regimented business, industry and agriculture. These policies have kept twenty millions in the mire of unemployment. This, I remind you, is in the face of the squandering of many billions of our money."

Admonish To Monday.
Supreme Court adjourned Thursday afternoon until 10 o'clock Monday morning when trial of child actions will be resumed. The grand jury is expected to report about Wednesday.

City Treasurer Now Preparing for Sale List of Properties

This List Will Contain City Properties On Which The 1935 School Tax And The 1936 General Tax Has Not Been Paid—To Publish List November 16.

City Treasurer C. Ray Everett stated this morning that his office was now busy preparing a list of city properties on which the 1935 school taxes and the 1936 general taxes have not been paid, and that the list of properties would be advertised for sale the week of November 16.

Property owners who have not paid their taxes and do not desire to see their properties advertised for sale should make arrangements to pay the taxes before the week of November 16, so that their properties may be omitted from the list.

The city tax sale is planned to be held early in December.

The last day for the redemption of properties sold for the 1934 unpaid taxes, is December 5 of this year.

No Food for Jury
Utica, N. Y., Oct. 16 (AP)—City Court jurors trying a speeding case here served without eating from noon yesterday until 1:45 a. m. today before reporting they could not agree. Soon after their deliberations began the jurors told City Judge Frank T. Quinn, that they were hungry. He replied there was no provision for jurors' meals in the City Court law. Finally he discharged them and set November 20 as the date for the new trial.

Republican Members of Board of Election in New York City are on Record as Favoring Temporary Law.

LEHMAN AGREES

Governor Lehman at Binghamton Recommends Special Session Today.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 16 (AP)—A special session of the legislature within two weeks to pass a law opening the polls three extra hours on November 3 to take care of unprecedented registration of voters became a distinct probability today.

Governor Lehman said in Binghamton he favored such a session to "prevent disenfranchising voters," and a responsible Republican leader disclosed an hour later that he believed his party would agree to such a plan.

Republican members of the board of election in New York city are on record already as favoring the extra session to pass legislation of a temporary nature so that polls could be kept open from 6 a. m. to 9 p. m., instead of closing at 6 p. m., as required by the present law.

There was no immediate Republican reaction to the governor's proposal for an emergency legislative measure, if a special session is held, to permit a referendum on the eight-hour day for New York city freemen.

Republican leaders were known to be conferring in various parts of the state by telephone and a definite pronouncement within an hour or two was expected at noon.

Lehman's Recommendation.

Binghamton, N. Y., Oct. 16 (AP)—Governor Lehman recommended today that the legislature today take a special session to consider legislation to keep the polls open in New York state three extra hours on election day.

This was the governor's reaction to a request by the board of election in New York city that the polls remain open until 9 p. m. on November 3, to take care of a heavy vote indicated by unprecedented registration of voters.

In addition to the recommendation for the extension of voting hours, the governor suggested to the legislative leaders that the session reconsider the referendum for the eight hour day for New York city freemen.

The Court of Appeals rejected plans for a referendum of the question at next month's election.

Emergency Message
"I shall grant an emergency message on the question of the eight hour day for New York city freemen," the governor said, "inasmuch as the original law was passed by unanimous vote. This technical defect can be immediately cured so that the people of New York city may have a chance to vote on an eight-hour day for their freemen."

Regarding the extension of voting hours, which at present are set by law between 6 a. m. and 6 p. m., Eastern Standard Time, throughout the state, the governor said:

3 Separate Ballots

"If this is not done, the board of elections points out that it will be necessary to use in at least two boroughs of the city of New York, three separate paper ballots for each voter."

"It is my strong belief that the state should do all possible to prevent disenfranchising any registered voter, and therefore I favor a special session of the legislature."

The governor addressed a telegram to Senate Majority Leader John J. Dinnick, Senate Minority Leader George R. Fearon, Speaker Irvine Steagat of the Assembly.

The governor told reporters that "I have no doubt that the legislative leaders will agree to my recommendations for a special session; I see no particular reason why they should object to it."

The governor can call an extra session without consulting the leaders, but he explained that there was little point in doing so unless he had assurances from them as to the necessity for such a session.

The rally then closed with the showing of the movies taken by Mr. Loughran which proved highly interesting. The snow shots were especially effective and gave some idea of the work that confronted the snowplows of the county. Mr. Loughran explained that the county plowed 500 miles after each snowstorm and that the work was completed in about 14 hours. He also showed interesting pictures he had taken in New York city when Mr. Elting was serving as Collector of the Port of New York. The shots showed Mr. Elting at his desk and also some shots of the exterior of the building. The closing scenes of the movies were those taken at Tilton Lake, and many well known residents of Ulster county smiled down on the audience from the screen.

Next week the meeting will be in charge of the ladies, and they have arranged an interesting program with speaking by three prominent women orators.

Even after trying the sentence, trusted subscribers cannot get the correct number of F's. How many did you get?

FLASHES OF LIFE SKETCHED IN BRIEF

Y. W. Fall Rally
For Membership

A most interesting program is being prepared for the Y. W. C. A. fall membership rally which will be held on next Tuesday evening, October 20, in the "Y" hall at 8 p. m.

The special event of the evening will be a little one-act play, "The Future Has a Past," which will be presented by some of the members of the board of directors. The play is amusing, yet has a real "point." Those having the speaking parts are Mrs. Raymond Rignall, Miss Mary Staples, Mrs. G. N. Wood, Mrs. Frederick W. Holcomb, Mrs. M. Donald Lane, Mrs. Myron S. Teller, Mrs. Charles Terwilliger, Mrs. John W. Matthews, Mrs. Cornelius Treadwell, Mrs. Robin Stalle, Mrs. Howard Lewis. The coach is Mrs. A. Noble Graham, while Mrs. Lewis is in charge of the costuming and Miss Staples is staging the production.

A group from the Kingston Choristers will also present two pleasing musical numbers, and representatives from various clubs and groups of the Y. W. C. A. will briefly present their fall programs. Robert Sisson, general secretary of the Y. W. C. A., will also give a greeting. All members and friends of the Y. W. C. A. are cordially invited to attend. A social hour will follow the scheduled program.

American Legion
Meeting Tonight

At the regular monthly meeting of Kingston Post, American Legion, tonight, Commander Roedel will inaugurate the presenting of an attendance prize to the members. All paid up members are eligible but they must be present to be awarded the prize. The membership of the post is now 250. Membership dues for 1937 are now due. In order to allow the Legionnaires who are night fans to attend the boxing show at the Auditorium Commander Roedel guarantees that the meeting will start promptly at 8, and the proceedings will move along in high gear. Bill is one of the most ardent of fight fans in this section and he wants to be present when the gong sounds for the boxing show. After the meeting there will be dancing and refreshments.

A Correction
The price of smoked tenderloins in Lehr's advertisement Thursday night was inadvertently quoted as 21 cents a pound instead of 35 cents.

Card of Thanks
The Rev. and Mrs. Daniel Osgood of Chichester wish to thank all who contributed for her hospital care; also for the many kindnesses during that time.—Advertisement.

Double Duty
Warwood, W. Va.—The laundry bills for the Warwood High School football team were running too high and something had to be done about it.

The school invested in a washing machine and directed team managers to take over the job of cleaning the equipment.

Rocked To Death
Walterboro, S. C.—Mrs. Lily Williams felt a bump, heard the rocker of her chair crunch as she rocked in placid conversation with a neighbor. It was dark and she didn't bother to investigate.

But next morning she found a dead rattlesnake on the porch floor, its head crushed.

Early Death
Newton, Mass.—The rooster that Albert W. Davis was saving for Thanksgiving will appear on the dinner table Sunday, because it crowed too loud.

Health Officer Irving W. House said every day at 2 a. m. the rooster's lusty voice awakened a baby in the neighborhood. The baby cried and awakened a dog, the dog barked and awakened the neighbors. The neighbors complained to House. House advised Davis to do something about it. He did—with a hatchet.

Check Signals
Worthington, Conn.—B. Paine, a back on Worthington High School's football team, caught his own punt in a game against Windom.

He kicked the ball well beyond the line of scrimmage but a strong wind carried it back and he lost about 12 yards on the play. His team won 8 to 6, nevertheless.

Unexpected Evidence
Milwaukee—A set of false teeth betrayed Mark Baker, 29, as a hit and run driver.

Charles Parker, 21, was killed when struck by a car on a highway. Noting a dent in a fender on Baker's car, police stopped him for questioning. On the running board were Parker's missing false teeth.

Baker was sentenced to 11 months in the workhouse.

Baptist Supper
There will be a cafeteria supper held at the Wurts Street Baptist Church Tuesday, October 20, from 5:30 on. Following is the menu: Chicken patties, meat loaf, potato salad, mashed potatoes, macaroni and cheese, baked beans, pickles and cabbage salad, rolls and butter, ice cream, cake, fruit salad, tea and coffee.

Katrine Supper
The Lake Katrine Home Department will hold a supper in the Grange hall, Thursday, October 22, from 5:30 until all are served. The menu: Roast pork, dressing, mashed potatoes, turnips, carrots, onions, apple sauce, cranberries, cabbage salad, rolls, apple pie and coffee.

A CITY WAS BORN

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN.

(Foreword—The following is a brief recital of the early struggles of leading citizens of the then villages of Kingston and Rondout each to secure a charter incorporating them as the cities of Kingston and Rondout. The information given is taken from the files of the newspapers of those early days of over half a century ago.)

Chapter IV

NO RONDOUT CHARTER

With the charter question still unsettled committees from the villages of Kingston and Rondout again traveled to Albany in January of 1872, one year after the previous hearing, and met with the Assembly committee on cities and villages to argue again for the granting of a city charter. Those representing Rondout urged that that village be granted a city charter, while the Kingston delegation argued that a charter be granted combining the two villages into the city of Kingston.

Again the Assembly committee decreed that the hearing would be limited to two hours and the speakers to two on each side.

S. L. Stebbins on behalf of Rondout read a lengthy statement setting forth the reason why Rondout believed it should be granted a charter. The statement in part said that nearly a year ago a committee representing all of the interests and shades of feeling in the village had drafted a charter which was approved by the citizens of Rondout, and which was in the hands of the Assembly committee, and Rondout asked for its favorable consideration. "The present village, with a moderate addition on the north so as to include North Rondout, which is practically a compact part of it, but which is now cut in two by the boundary line, and so as to include those whose interests and feelings are one with ours, is all the territory that is asked."

"We desired to bring in Wilbur, which is just across our southwest border, but as most of the people there prefer a town to a city government, thinking it better for them, Wilbur is left out, as we would not feel justified in seeking to force ourselves into municipal union with a neighboring village against its supposed interests and its will."

The statement also set forth some facts and figures to indicate why Rondout should be organized as a city. It was the terminal of the Delaware and Hudson Canal, and is now the terminus of the Rondout and Owego Railroad. The proposed city average two miles in length and one mile in breadth, and had a population of between 11,000 and 12,000. The village had 35 graded streets, including five paved streets, and three public sewers. It had 14 public fire cisterns valued at $8,400; five engine house lots, on four of which are completed engine houses, costing $19,000, five engines and apparatus worth $21,000, and nine fire companies including three steam fire engine companies, two hand engine companies, one hook and ladder company and three hose companies.

Rondout had 12 churches, the building of which cost $180,000 and school houses built at an expense of $71,000. It paid teachers' wages whose annual amount was $18,820; it had by the last census 3,545 children of school age and 31 teachers, exclusive of those in private schools. It had two first-class weekly newspapers, well supported and conducted with unusual ability, and a daily newspaper which was alive in every square inch of its surface.

It had two national banks whose combined capital and surplus exceeded $800,000 and a savings bank which had been but three years in operation and which had deposits amounting to over half a million dollars. Its coal company, its lime and cement company, its foundry and machine works, its steam planing and sawing mills, and its large wholesale establishments, employed large numbers of skilled and unskilled workers.

Rondout also had 3 1/2 miles of completed docks, and exclusive of vessels owned elsewhere it had running from its wharves 30 steamboats and a large number of sail vessels owned by its citizens, and it had extensive commercial and maritime connections. The daily arrival of canal boats alone numbered about 65 and of other vessels about 35, a total of 100 vessels arriving and departing daily.

In conclusion the statement prepared and read by Mr. Stebbins urged that the village of Rondout be granted a charter as a city.

John E. Van Eiten appeared on behalf of the village of Kingston and urged that a charter be approved combining both villages. He said that Kingston was one of the first centers of civilization in the country having been settled in 1629. He called attention to the fact that Kingston had

Austria—Land Of Many Armies—Gets A New One

AUSTRIA'S ARMIES—THE HEIMATSCHUTZ
Heimatschutz soldiers seem to be living up to their motto of "always ready" as they run guns on the cab of a truck.

THE FREIHEITS BUND
Members of another private army, the Freiheits Bund, friendly to Chancellor Schuschnigg, salute as they stand at attention.

THE HEIMWEHR
An army travels on its stomach. Witness the soldier of the Heimwehr, fascist military group, pouring it down.

By ALVINE STEINKOPF

Vienna (AP)—A new Austrian military force, its men wearing gray-green uniforms and caps sporting jaunty feathers, is gradually coming into being.

The new soldiers, carrying rifles and side arms, guard numerous semi-public buildings and political headquarters. They occupy many posts at which, a year ago, the Austrian private armies stood guard.

The new force is the volunteer militia, conceived by Chancellor Schuschnigg as a federally controlled army of volunteers to replace, and to some extent, to absorb the old private armies. It is no longer necessary, the chancellor held, for the Fascists to have their Heimwehr, for the Catholics to support their storm troops, or the Christian labor unions to mobilize their Freiheits Bund every time some political emergency arises.

Slow Process

But disbanding the private armies was not accomplished over night. The process is far from complete. The Heimwehr, although not the force it was when Prince Ernst Rudiger von Starhemberg used it to smash the Socialist administration in Vienna and to maintain order when Nazi putschists assassinated Chancellor Dollfus, retains its organization.

The Catholic storm troops, the chancellor's own military arm, have become a "cultural and religious" organization, but among close observers the impression prevails that these Catholic fighters know just where they left their weapons.

The Freiheits Bund, although friendly to the chancellor, was watching the Heimwehr, and did not propose to be swallowed up by another organization, so long as the Heimwehr remained a positive influence.

So the new militia got off to a slow start.

Heimwehr Charges Betrayal

As originally conceived it was, roughly, to resemble the American guard—to be an auxiliary to the federal army and to include in its membership men with civilian occupations. Vice Chancellor Eduard Baar-Baarenfels, himself a Heimwehrman and in the stirring days of 1934 an intimate adviser to Starhemberg, was named commander. It was thought that his prestige would attract Heimwehrmen.

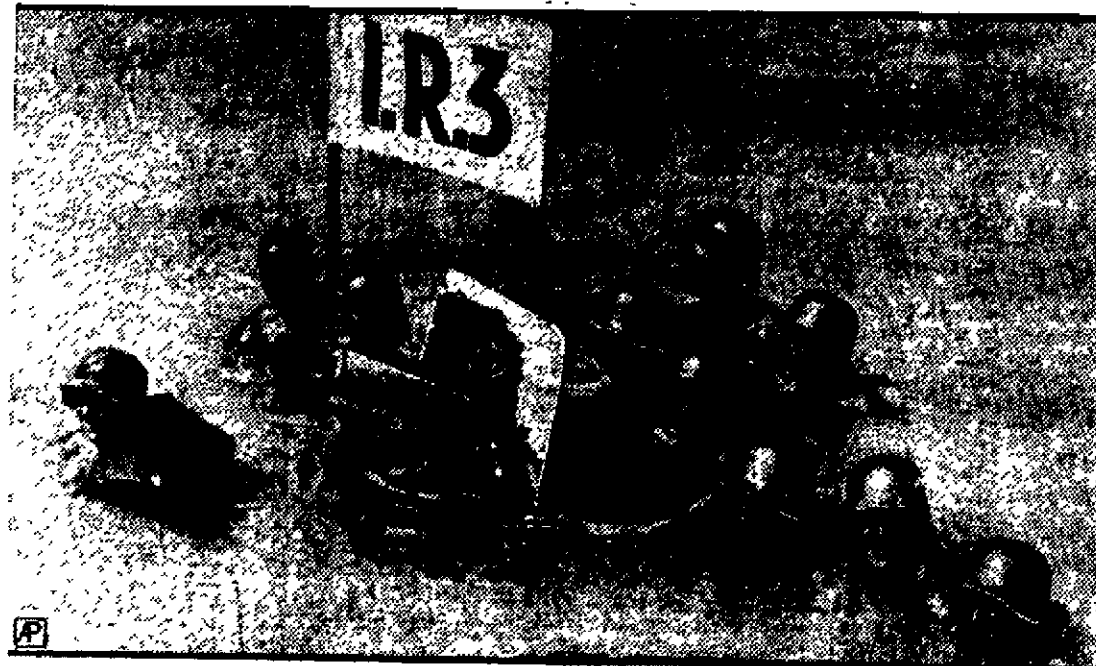

But many Heimwehrman were not satisfied, and some complained that the vice chancellor was betraying the organization.

Disagree on Role

Another difficulty seemed to be a difference between the chancellor and Baar-Baarenfels as to the precise role the militia was to play. The chancellor described the militia as the military arm of the Fatherland Front—a loosely jointed organization which is the only legal expression of the political will of Austria.

But Baar-Baarenfels, addressing men and officers after their first general maneuvers, said they must be, entirely, a military force, no more concerned with the programs of political leaders than is the federal army.

Chancellery spokesmen say an ultimate strength of about 100,000 is contemplated for the militia, but add that this number has by no means been attained. It is estimated that in Vienna 1,500 militiamen are on active duty. Other thousands, many without uniforms and arms, are being called from their homes several times a week for instruction and occasional maneuvers. The pay of militiamen on active duty is 10 cents a day. They receive their meals and live in barracks. There are no appropriations to pay others. The militia has light and heavy machine guns, rifles and side arms. The militia command has as recent maneuvers a tank and not indicated whether other weapons are to be provided.

Retires from State Service

Miss Margaret W. O'Connor, of this city, supervising public health nurse, division of Maternity, Infancy and Child Hygiene of New York State Department of Health, has retired from state service. The September 7th issue of "Health News," the weekly official publication of the state department of health, contains the following article:

"Miss Margaret W. O'Connor, supervising public health nurse, division of Maternity, Infancy and Child Hygiene, retired from state service on September 1st, 1936. Miss O'Connor joined the staff in 1922, when through federal funds there was an expansion in the maternity, infancy and child hygiene program. Resourcesfulness and broad vision were among Miss O'Connor's assets and she aided considerably in the inauguration of the program. She entered state service with excellent teaching preparation and experience. Among her various contributions to the state department and to the public has been the teaching of many groups of adults, in family health conferences. The large number of requests for return classes in numerous areas of the state, indicate that she has been extremely skillful in this activity."

Duce Trains 'Successor' In Hard Knocks School

DUCE'S "PUPIL"—AT THE FRONT

Mussolini sent his son-in-law, Count Galeazzo Ciano (doesn't that jaw look familiar?), to lead an air squadron in Ethiopia and get shot at—for the experience.

HOME FROM THE WARS

... met him at the airport on his safe return, embraced him warmly, and chattered happily as they walked away arm-in-arm.

DECORATIONS

... proudly pinned a medal of honor on the young count for bravery in the colonial campaign, thus keeping heroism in the family.

SYMBOLIC?

... and today, Foreign Minister Ciano sits beneath Duce amid rumors of a big new job planned for him.

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

New York (AP)—Young Count Galeazzo Ciano, Mussolini's handsome son-in-law, who is named in Rome political circles as likely successor to the dictatorship when the great Duce relinquishes the reins, already has had a vigorous and typically Mussolinian grooming.

Mussolini has been hammering at the schooling of his protegee for some eight years, even sending him to war to get shot at—just for the experience. Now, at the age of 33, Ciano is the youngest foreign minister of any major power, but father-in-law merely sticks out that famous jaw and gives a grin which says: "I haven't started with you yet."

Next month, it is said, Mussolini will discuss with the fascist grand council the idea of making Ciano prime minister of Italy. This exalted position now held by Mussolini himself, is next in rank to that of "head of government," which carries the dictatorship and is not in the market for anybody.

The count not only has a world-renowned father-in-law, but a distinguished father—Count Costanzo Ciano, president of the chamber of deputies. The young man started out as a newspaper writer, among other things doing special correspondence for Mussolini's paper, Popolo d'Italia, of Milan. He shortly abandoned this for official life.

Wed Favorite Child He was secretary of the embassies at Buenos Aires and Rio de Janeiro for a brief time, and in 1929 was appointed secretary of the embassy to the Holy See in Rome. Next year he married Mussolini's daughter Edda, the dictator's first-born and apple of his eye.

Il Duce blessed the young couple and forthwith shipped them to the consulate general at Shanghai. In this Oriental setting Duce's grandson was born. The wee lad hadn't seen many suns rise before his fast-moving dad was made minister to China. In 1933 Ciano was recalled and sent as a delegate to the world economic conference in London where he delivered several speeches. Then back to the Eternal City to the position of minister of propaganda, which gave him a practical dictatorship over the Italian press.

On Verge Of Big Job Last year, after a hint from Mussolini, Ciano took up aviation and in January of this year got his license. Mussolini's foresight had been good. The Ethiopian war came along and the count went to Africa. He won a decoration for valor as leader of the "Desperate" squadron, in which the Duce's two sons flew. The Roman triumph of the returning hero consisted of appointment to the important position of foreign minister. In a few weeks more he may know whether he is to hit the next-to-the-topmost rung of the Italian ladder of fame.

Murray Says Youth Needs Aid to Become Valuable Citizens

The district attorney's office wants citizens, not criminals, and the way to prevent boys and young men from becoming criminals is to take an interest in them by giving them encouragement and a helping hand, said District Attorney Cleon B. Murray in an address to members of the Kiwanis Club at the Governor Clinton Hotel Thursday noon. The district attorney amplified his statement by citing cases where potential criminals were given a helping hand in his office and other cases where outside individuals were placed in charge of and consulted with in the hope of keeping certain boys from becoming at odds with the law.

While Mr. Murray's main topic was crime prevention, he deviated into auto accidents, due to drunken driving and complimented the new state department of criminal investigation, sometimes called New York's "Scotland Yard," speaking from first-hand experience when that organization had been called upon to serve the county. "The B. C. I. comes to serve the Ulster county taxpayer at much less cost than a private investigator," stated Mr. Murray, "and the work done by this department is highly efficient."

Mr. Murray also complimented the Kiwanis project among the membership to "get everyone to register and vote," no matter what their politics. Said the district attorney, "Only 53 per cent of the voting population goes to the polls according to statistics. Therefore you will give the people the kind of a government they want if you get them to vote for the officials they wish."

Cites Auto Accidents Citing auto accidents, the speaker called attention to an item which stated that during the past summer there were 600 persons hurt by auto accidents in the little village of Moggiello. "In Ulster county the deaths from auto accidents has averaged 28 per year for the past several years," he said. Mr. Murray asked support in the legislature for a bill which would place the drunken driving cases before the grand jury. "At present there are as many different fines and sentences as there are justices," continued the speaker, "and sometimes suspended sentences are given."

As far as the drunken driver is concerned you might just as well turn him loose with a machine gun. To fight this menace I call attention to past records in the county court, which, when cases were tried there and convictions obtained, resulted in stiff fines and high costs.

Compliments Kiwanis The district attorney also complimented Kiwanis on its interest in the local police association and the police officers' problems. "I say," he emphasized, "that our police should be as well armed as the learned criminal, with every kind of weapon to fight back and put the police officer on at least an equal footing with the criminal."

Mr. Murray said that the cost to fight crime was high for the taxpayer, but that crime itself costs something like 15 billion of dollars a year. "The place to reduce this cost and to prevent crime is more attention to young men and boys. A boy likes to have an older man such as you to tie to and call his friend and your helping hand may be the salvation of many a boy," he continued.

Mr. Murray concluded by saying that he was pleased with the work the Kiwanis Club had been doing among the boys of this community, and voiced the hope that this work would continue and grow. County Judge Frederick G. Traver, an honorary Kiwanian, was also present at the meeting and received greetings from the club.

School of Porpoise In Hudson River

For the first time in the recollection of the oldest rivermen, porpoises have invaded Newburgh Bay and have moved as far up the Hudson as Poughkeepsie.

According to reports of employees on the Newburgh-Beacon ferry, who have caught sight of porpoises several times within the last two or three days, a fairly large school has apparently found its way into the river.

Proof of the reports was furnished at Highland, where the body of a porpoise weighing several hundred pounds, apparently killed by a Day Line boat, was washed up on the shore.

Four Injured in Dynamite Blasts

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 16 (AP).—Four men, injured in two dynamite explosions in a sewer tunnel 40 feet below street level, were under observation in a hospital here today.

Working on the new $15,000,000 sewer project beneath West Delevan avenue, the men were injured last night when seven sticks of dynamite in a rock bore let go.

David O'Connor, 25, and George

Rich, 26, were showered with sharp stones in the first blast and suffered numerous flesh wounds.

Peter Vlodika, 32, caught in the same explosion, was less seriously hurt.

Willard Smith, 28, lone victim of the second blast which followed the first by half an hour, suffered temporary deafness.

Physicians planned a detailed examination to determine if the men suffered any eye injuries.

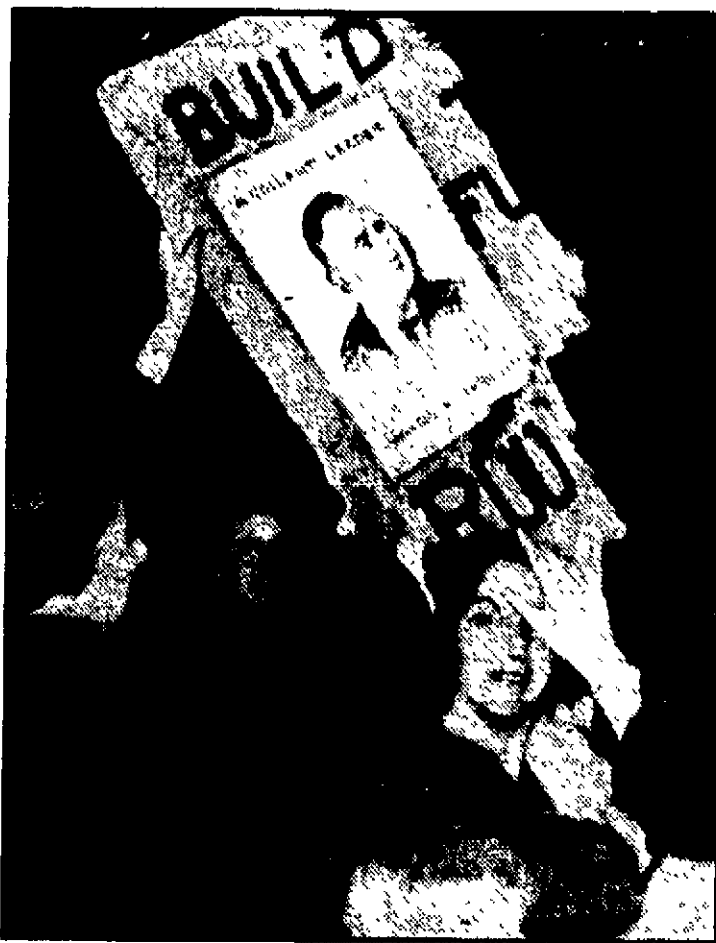

Cuyahoga county, Ohio, gets its name from the Cuyahoga river, the work being Indian for "crooked."

Discharged From Bankruptcy.

New York, Oct. 15 (Special).—An order was signed in United States District Court here yesterday by Judge Henry W. The corporation, through its president, Cople Barnovitz, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in the court on May 19. Liabilities totaled $8,512 and assets $2,090. Creditors did not oppose the application for discharge.

SMITH GIRLS IN POLITICAL RIOT

This Roosevelt sign didn't last long when Republican sympathizers among Smith College girls at Northampton, Mass., went into action at a G.O.P. rally. A group of girls bearing similar banners marched on the meeting, and a round of exclusive scuffling and blue-blooded hair-pulling resulted. (Associated Press Photo)

LONDON'S AIM—NOISELESS CITY

London (AP)—Out to make the city "all-silent" by 1940, the London Passenger Transport Board is engaged in soft-pedalling the clash and clatter through which the city's residents must move each day.

Officials of the underground railways already have conducted successful experiments, they say, with the welding together of rails and the padding of the tubes.

Automobile and motorcycle manufacturers have promised that henceforth no noisy vehicles will leave their plants. Trackless trolleys are replacing street cars and other noise makers are cooperating.

Something queer has happened to the American public. People flock to art exhibits as they once did to circuses.

Give Grave Digger Relief From Job*LET US PRAY

"Don't you think we should pray," says Eddie Mullins, Kenton, O., grave digger. And Jersey, one of his pet cows, dutifully scrapes the ground. Then Eddie turns to Mabel. Up comes the right hoof as he tells her to shake.

Kenton, Ohio (AP).—Eddie Mullins, who digs graves in Grove cemetery, admits his job's a bit depressing but it would be worse if it weren't for Jersey and Mabel. Jersey and Mabel are his pet cows.

Eddie, who loves animals and would like to have a farm of his own, walked into the dry brown pasture to the east of the cemetery. He had just finished planting some evergreens and had a few minutes to spend with his friends.

Both trotted toward him, each apparently eager to be the first to receive a pat on the head. Jersey won the trot.

Jersey Prays

"Don't you think it would be a good time to pray for rain so the grass will be green again?" said Mullins to Jersey.

Jersey looked at him for a moment and then sank to her front knees, her head almost to the ground, but she still had her eyes focused on him.

SHAKE, PAL!

"Look at you," reproved Mullins, "you'll never get rain by praying that way." Jersey then bowed her head until her chin touched the ground.

Mabel Shows Her Love

"That's better," said Mullins. "Now show me that you're my pal." Jersey rose and proffered her right hoof, which Eddie took, much the same as a pet dog shakes hands.

Next Eddie said: "How old are you, Jersey?" Very promptly Jersey stamped her right foot on the ground five times. "That's right, you tell the truth about your age and that's more than a lot of girls do nowadays."

Just then Mabel came close to Eddie and rubbed the side of her face along his neck. "How much do you love me, Mabel?" questioned Eddie.

And Mabel went "Moo-o-o-o-o." "Taught her that when she was a calf," observed Mullins as he "shook hands" with her and started back to the cemetery.

"Before I fed her I would pull her head up on my shoulder. Then I'd give a few 'moo-o-o-o's' and pretty soon she caught the idea. Now she wants to do it all the time."

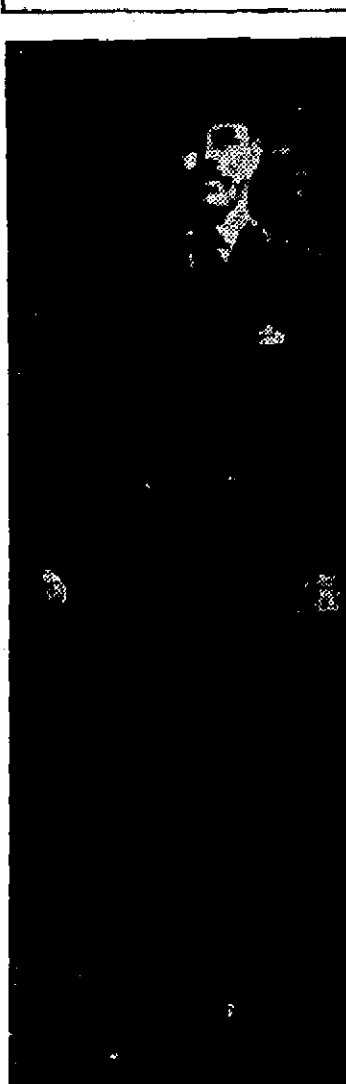

Both cows give goodly quantities of milk, he says.

Rooster Does Trick, Too

Going through the yard Eddie came upon "Paddy," a husky rooster. "How big are you, old boy?" Paddy immediately spread his wings and huffed up his feathers in a determined effort to look as big as a turkey gobbler. I taught him that last winter when he had his comb frozen during the extremely cold weather," observed Eddie. "Before feeding him I would stretch out his wings and talk to him about how big he was. He soon got the idea."

HE MOVED TO HIS CLUB

This photo, transmitted by radio from London to New York, shows moving men taking Mrs. Wally Simpson's furniture from the Brynston Court apartment of the Simpsons to her new home. The Chinese Language
in Picturesque Phrases

No language is more thickly interspersed with picturesque phrases and gaudy comparisons than the Chinese, writes John W. Mahoney in Nature Magazine. It is often and quite correctly said that one can never understand the people of Cathay without an insight into the language of the country, the common dialects of the working classes as well as the formal Mandarin spoken in official and well-to-do circles.

The spoken and written word in the Far East sprang from the primeval awe the early sages and philosophers, who first attempted to put their thoughts and desires into pictures or words, felt toward all things natural about them.

At a dinner of congratulation, when a young Chinese friend of mine received an appointment to an important government post, a stately old gentleman expressed his good wishes: "May you soar as the roc to a height of 10,000 li!" Chinese classics are filled with such quaint expressions, accessories of speech that are still used in the everyday language of the peasant-coolie as well as the merchant prince and the scholar.

Interwoven into all the traditions of the country, and into many of the customs, are relics of by-gone dynasties and ages when the worship of nature in the heavens, the seas and on land played a most important part in both the spiritual and the practical life of the Chinese. It is difficult to find treasured tapestries or early paintings that do not have about them some demonstration of this regard for the beauties of nature.

We Must Have Salt, but Too Much May Be Fatal

Salt is a combination of the metal sodium with the gas chlorine. Because of its great chemical activity, sodium is never found pure in nature. It was first isolated by Sir Humphry Davy in 1807, and he is said to have cried with emotion when he saw the silvery globules of the hitherto unknown metal.

Chlorine, a yellowish gas, is a deadly poison, and was much used during the World War. Yet from these two strange substances is made salt, without which we cannot live, asserts a writer in the Washington Post. It enters into the composition of the human body and forms a necessary part of the blood stream. A solution containing 6 grams of salt per thousand of water will not harm the most sensitive of living tissues and, in severe cases of loss of blood, can be injected into the body, where it will maintain life for a short time.

Centuries ago one method of torturing criminals was to put so salt in their food and give them nothing but flat rain water to drink. Under this treatment they soon died.

Too much salt, however, is fatal. Nothing can grow where there is an abundance of salt.

Bristow, Okla., has marked off a parking area on its Main street for use by tourists only.

Early Clocks Were Crude

Clocks, like nearly everything else, had a crude beginning. Man first measured time by shadows cast by the sun. Later the sundial was developed. The Chinese and the Greeks improved on the sundial by inventing a water clock. This consisted of a vase filled with water. The water dripped drop by drop through a small opening in the bottom into a vessel beneath. The side of the vase was marked off in lines, and the height of the water indicated the time. Sand clocks were also used. In these, like the hour-glasses, time was measured by running sand. King Alfred the Great is said to have marked time by burning candles marked with rings of color.

Church, Tower, Separated

The church at Warmworth, near Doncaster, must be unique, says Pearson's London Weekly. The tower is half a mile distant from the church itself. It was built in this peculiar fashion during the twelfth century. Another strange church is at Arundel, Sussex. The chancel, adjudged to be the private property of the Duke of Norfolk in 1573, was walled off from the main church. A high altar was erected and services are held there, while, on the other side of the wall, Anglicans worship according to their own rites.

Nearly 2,000,000 Votes From All States Give Landon Large Lead In Literary Digest Straw Poll

Roosevelt Carries New York City, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh in First Big City Returns

The Magazine Compares the Potential Vote of the "Haves" and "Have-Nots"

Landon captures 22 states and Roosevelt 16 at 1,811,499 ballots are reported from all states in the quarter final returns of The Literary Digest's nation-wide Presidential poll.

Though the Republican nominee's lead decreases slightly percentage-wise he still retains a substantial majority of close to 3 to 1 in the popular vote represented by the poll returns.

The seventh week's tabulation shows Landon with 1,004,086 poll votes to Roosevelt's 728,088 and Lemke's 61,981.

Initial returns are reported in this seventh week's tabulation from eight additional states. Vermont and New Hampshire go approximately 3 to 1 and Connecticut nearly 4 to 1 for Landon.

Delaware gives the Republican candidate an edge of less than 5 to 4 while West Virginia is shown indicating a Republican majority of nearly 3 to 2.

South Carolina's first batch of ballots gives Roosevelt a lead of over 6 to 1. North Carolina votes for him about 2 to 1 and Virginia goes Democratic by over 2 to 1.

Of the forty states from which ballots were reported last week twenty-two show an increase lead for Landon, seventeen show a decrease and no change is recorded in one.

His own state of Kansas and also Kentucky and Missouri give the Republican nominee substantial increases while Idaho, Michigan and Wisconsin cut his majority sharply percentage-wise.

Due to the addition of metropolitan city votes Landon's majority is cut in New York from nearly 3 to 1 last week to less than 2 to 1 this week and his majority in Pennsylvania declines over 7 per cent.

The magazine states that the returns from Illinois do not as yet include Chicago nor are returns from Cleveland in the Ohio column yet. Over 70,000 votes from Philadelphia and Pittsburgh are included in the Pennsylvania totals and over 46,000 New York city ballots are in the New York state tabulations in the current report.

All ballots, the mailing origin of which the magazine states it can not identify, are classified as "State Unknowns" which grouping gives a much closer cleavage of the major parties votes than do the main poll totals. This forty-ninth state shows Landon with 6,948 votes to Roosevelt's 5,714 and Lemke's 603.

A division of the Electoral College vote of these quarter final returns indicates Landon would receive 270 electoral votes to Roosevelt's 161.

"For the first time, The Literary Digest's 1936 Presidential Poll lists returns from the forty-eight states," the magazine states in its current issue.

"In report number seven, 556,773 new ballots have been entered, checked and tabulated. Eight states appear for the first time.

"For the sixth consecutive week, President Roosevelt has picked the lead captured by Landon in the initial scoring. Landon's percentage this week is 55.4; Roosevelt's, 40.1.

"Still to be counted in, however, is much of the big city vote. Only 46,480 New York city ballots are included in this week's report; 53,181 from Philadelphia; 17,768 from Pittsburgh, none from Chicago or Cleveland.

"Since commentators had repeatedly stressed their belief that the vote in the largest cities, with preponderantly industrial populations, would show a significant difference, the result that in other cities. The Literary Digest decided this year to treat the major cities separately, sample the voters there more earnestly and more exhaustively. Hence, these returns necessarily must lag behind the Poll as a whole.

"So far, New York city returns show 23,227 for the President, 12,694 for the Governor. Illinois results do not include Chicago, Ohio figures omit Cleveland. In Philadelphia, Roosevelt leads with 52.8 per cent to Landon's 41.4; Pittsburgh, scene of the Chief Executive's recent fiery address at Forbes Field, shows a similar lead, with 53.5 per cent to 38.5.

"A great deal has been said about the part relief workers and other beneficiaries of Federal aid are likely to play in the election. Certain observers, insisting that the issue will be tightly drawn between the 'haves' and the 'have-nots'—i.e., the taxpayers and investors and those on the receiving end of Federal funds—have assumed that the relief vote is the most important factor in the election. Is this true?

"According to an official statement from Washington, there were, as of September 1, 3,250,000 persons on the rolls of the various New Deal relief agencies. Since 1933, it is estimated there have been approximately 16,250,000 beneficiaries of doles, AAA benefits, etc.

"On the other side of the picture, there are 16,000,000 life insurance policyholders, 45,000,000 gainful workers over twenty-one years of age, 40,000,000 savings bank depositors, 24,000,000 security owners, 22,500,000 passenger automobile owners and 10,650,000 residence telephone subscribers, according to recent surveys.

"Obviously, even if one took the liberty of assuming that 100 per cent of the 16,250,000 who have received aid from the government will vote for Roosevelt, there would be the temptation to place a disproportionate emphasis on this minority of the electorate.

"As a matter of fact, about one-eighth of those on relief, according to an official New York survey, will not be eligible to vote at all. And judging from some of the farm state returns, a considerable number of beneficiaries will none the less vote for Governor Landon.

"Lemke wobbles along in the rear, with 2.4 per cent of the vote, his strength showing principally in Minnesota, Wisconsin, Louisiana, Iowa and his native soil of North Dakota. Virtually seven-tenths of his 61,981 ballots come from the Democratic voters of 1932.

"Of the other candidates, Norman Thomas, Socialist, has 8,351 votes, Earl Browder, Communist, 4,963; D. Leigh Colvin, Prohibitionist, 3,183; John W. Alken, Socialist-Labor, 453; all others, 379.

"Two more Literary Digest poll reports remain; October 24 and October 31. By then the complete city, industrial, agrarian and other ballots will be in. And the election will come only three days after the last report."

Men's Club Met Wednesday

The Clinton Avenue Men's Club held their social and business meeting at Epworth Hall last evening and listened with marked interest to "The Story of the Bee" as told and described by one of the county's prominent bee culturists and honey producers, Clarence S. Rowe and his son Edward Rowe. Truly the bee is a startling subject when its activities are shown as they were by someone who knows from experience and study what its habits are. Apparently this little item in the nature class is equipped with instincts closely akin to intelligence and its many ways of adapting itself to conditions day after day and week after week, and although its life is short, generation after generation, Mr. Rowe's descriptions and exhibits were decidedly interesting. This was attested to by the many questions which followed his talk.

The Clinton Avenue Men's Club Monday night Recreational feature will be resumed this year beginning October 26 in the gym at Epworth Hall. Games for all ages of his membership and for all kinds of taste will be available to those participating in this "men's night" at the hall. The annual chicken pie supper of the Men's Club will be served at Epworth Hall on Wednesday evening, November 18, and this yearly affair is looked forward to both by the club and by the many friends, who care to enjoy this regular fine dinner.

The executive committee of the club will have some important announcements to make soon about the further program for the winter season. The club is participating in the local Scout financial campaign and will be among the teams in the Federated Dart Baseball League this winter.

GREECE WOULD STRENGTHEN CONTACT WITH UNITED STATES

Athens (AP)—Better communication should exist between Greece and America, a committee presided over by Prime Minister Metaxas decided in a conference here devoted to questions concerning Greeks abroad.

The committee would like to see more Greek schools and consulates in America; communications by modern transatlantic liners instituted; trade stimulated, and facilities improved for allowing American Greeks to visit their homeland.

Scout Drive Closes Tonight

The closing meeting and supper for all workers in the local Boy Scout Finance Campaign will take place this evening at the Y. M. C. A. at 6:30 p. m.

Chairman Eugene A. Freer urges all workers and captains to be present so that a complete report can be secured on all the cards which workers have out. This morning over 900 prospect cards were still in the hands of the workers and it is desired by the local committee to have all these seen before the campaign is actually closed.

The dinner meeting tonight will last but one hour from 6:30 to 7:30 p. m.

Pine Hill has been added to the communities that have passed their goal, having reached $55 and funds still coming in. Big Indian and Shandaken have both passed the half-way mark and expect to be finished successfully before the week is over.

Dog Monsters as Large as Bear Lived in West

Bands of dog monsters—some of them probably the biggest and fiercest beasts of prey that ever lived—trooped over the Middle West about 30,000,000 years ago, according to Thomas R. Henry in the Washington Star.

On of these dogs, the dinocyon, was as large as the Kodiak bear and probably looked much more like a bear than any living member of the canine family. It is known as the bear-dog, although directly related to neither animal.

Another, the mesocyon, was small, but may have been more savage. The skeleton of this animal indicates some possible relationship to the true canine family, made up of the dogs, wolves, foxes and hyenas. The actual order of animals to which these dogs belonged, however, has long since vanished from the earth. Hitherto the family has been known, for the most part, from scattered bones from which it was necessary to reconstruct an entire animal.

These ancient dogs had very large, formidable teeth. The probabilities are that they were largely feeders on carrion or that they stalked their prey rather than actually chased it. From the structure of their legs they apparently were not good runners. Neither, for that matter, were any of the ancient animals upon which they fed.

Few paleontological questions are more in dispute than that of the actual ancestry of the true dog family, which was spread all over the world at the time when man first came on the scene. It now is generally supposed that this ancestry was derived through the wolves.

World Armistice Called

Before Old Olympics

During Greece's golden years a world armistice was proclaimed by the three chief priests before Olympic Games competitions were held, states an Athens United Press correspondent.

The first Olympic Games were associated closely with religion, and the opening day of the competitions always was devoted to holy rites.

The games were carried on until the conquest of Greece by the Romans, who prevented the competitions as a precautionary measure. All public reunions at first were prohibited by the Romans.

The decline of the Olympic Games continued until 393 A. D. The first Olympic Games had one referee known as the Hellenodice. The fiftieth Olympiad saw the introduction of the second Hellenodice. Subsequently the games became more complicated and the Hellenodice became ten.

Building a Forest

Nature uses many clever schemes of checks and balances in its process of building a forest. If there are open spaces in the woods that permit plenty of sunlight to reach the ground young seedlings sprout up in profusion. They furnish protection to one another while small and, as they grow, the weaker ones die out, gradually eliminating all but the harder bushes. Eventually the openings are filled with strong saplings, properly spaced for developing into mature trees. If timber growth becomes too thick and some of the trees fail to get sufficient sunlight they die, leaving more room for the stronger trees to grow. Thus nature maintains a fairly uniform timber growth in the virgin forests.

Base Ball Terms

Some base ball hitters refer to left-handed pitchers as "twirly-thumbs." There are many terms for the different types of hits—mostly to describe scratches: rubbers, bloopers, bleeders, squibs, bump-backed liners, blue darters. The latter are low, hard liners, the name deriving from the snake known as the blue darter, says a writer in the Chicago Daily News. A hard hit ball is one which they say was "hit good," or "he got a hold of that one right," or "that was a well-whipped ball." A change-of-pace or slow ball is a "pull ball," and a ball that hasn't much on it is a "nothin' ball." A batter who swings with the count three-and-out, or three-and-one is "sucking on a criddle." A tall, easy fly is "a can of corn."

The place "where the trunk may young and the old get young" is one of the happy designations often applied to the Grange.

TALLMADGE COLLAPSES AGAIN

Dubinsky Calls It "A Sacred Duty"

That David Dubinsky, president and general secretary of the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union, and a presidential elector on the Democratic ticket, is doing all in his power to "produce the goods" for the New Deal magnates who honored him with a "place in the sun," is shown by a letter received by a Kingston worker.

The letter, with a franked return postal card, was turned over to one of the officers of the Women's Republican Club. It is a plea, practically an order, for the union worker addressed to register and to get every member of his family and every friend that he can reach to register.

In order to vote for Roosevelt and Lehman, "as a sacred duty." The return postal card contains a number of questions which the recipient of the letter is asked to answer in order that the union may know that the member is responsive to "the decision and will of the organization." Whether Mr. Dubinsky, whose signature in facsimile is attached to the letter, will "take steps" to properly discipline the member who might possibly have some old-fashioned American ideas regarding his right to think and vote as he pleases, is not stated.

Rebels Are Today 17 Miles from Madrid

With Gen. Jose Varela's Fascist Army, approaching Madrid, 8:30 p. m., Oct. 15 (Delayed) (AP)—Pushing steadily into gently rolling countryside, three columns of this advancing army now are within striking distance of Navacerrada, just 17 miles from Madrid.

In this less mountainous terrain the government will have even more trouble checking the insurgent advance.

Today the Fascist push was virtually unopposed except near Chaparral, where Colonel Castellan's column from San Martin De Valdeiglesias was forced to bring up artillery to clear the mountain passes.

The village of Mentrilla, northeast of Santa Cruz Del Retamar, has been occupied by the Fascists, and it was indicated there would be a union of the advancing forces near Villamanza, a few miles northeast of Mentrilla.

The newest advance, less sensational than the start of the push, gave further testimony of the success of General Varela's strategy in using secondary roads instead of main highways.

It has become a merry game of hide-and-seek to find the actual fighting along the interlocking roads, which are being used in the advance. General Varela, who believed in personal contact with the front lines, must cover a hundred miles daily in his Rolls Royce.

This evening's most exciting incident was the capture of the government aviator who earlier had bailed out of his burning plane above Varela's command post, and as Fascist officers watched, pretended to commit suicide in the air, escaping when his chute came down in a patch of woods.

He was found near Villa Del Prado and brought before General Varela.

The skin virtually was burned off his face, except where his helmet protected it, and his right foot was injured.

The Fascists identified him as a Yugoslavian, about 25 years old, but when they tried to talk with him in several languages he merely smiled.

His composure was remarkable. Officers said he was a Yugoslavian reserve officer who had been hired by the Madrid government for 3,000 pesetas a month, with 200,000 pesetas insurance.

Bridges dynamited by the government now present one of the major obstacles to the Fascist advance.

Engineers are trailing the columns with truckloads of pontoons and lumber, and the soldiers are getting a thorough education in splashing through rivers and brooks.

Nine-Year-Old Boy Breaks Arm While Playing at School

Arthur H. Brown, Jr., nine year old son of Jailer Arthur H. Brown, sustained a serious break in the elbow of his left arm, while playing at No. 7 School Thursday afternoon.

The accident happened during the recreation hour, when the lad was playing with others on the school ground. One of his companions slipped and fell and Arthur stumbled over him, striking his left arm and breaking the elbow joint.

Despite the fact that the boy had passed an almost sleepless night from the pain of the injured elbow, he showed his pluck by going to school this morning as usual, in order to keep up his attendance record, he having had a perfect record last year and so far this year.

Ulster County Bar Pays Tribute

came to him with their problems, and many of the members of the Ulster County Bar today look back to advice which they were given during their early career, by Frank W. Brooks, who was a friend and adviser to all.

As a man, he was lovable and of the highest integrity. His kindly smile will not soon be forgotten. He left friendship and affection in his wake wherever his pathway lay.

Resolved, by the Bar of Ulster county that in the death of its member, Frank W. Brooks, the bar of this county and the profession at large has lost an esteemed member, that the community by his death has suffered the loss of a good and upright citizen and that we join with the bereaved family of our deceased brother in saying, with all reverence to Almighty God, "Thy will be done."

Among those who paid tribute to Mr. Brooks was County Judge Frederick G. Traver. Mr. Traver said that perhaps no member of the Ulster County Bar had been so closely associated with Mr. Brooks as he.

Judge Traver said that he recalled when Mr. Brooks came down from the country and at that time they became friends and continued throughout their entire lives to be the best of friends. In fact Judge Traver said Mr. Brooks, after admission to the bar, had tried his first case before him as referee. In that case Mr. Brooks had submitted a brief. It was a very elaborate and scholarly brief which had been prepared after great labor. This brief Mr. Traver said he still kept as a memento.

During his early days Mr. Brooks had lacked self confidence, said Judge Traver, and during the days of Judge Charles Cantline, that learned jurist had assigned every possible criminal case to Mr. Brooks until Mr. Brooks came to refuse them. At that time Judge Cantline said to Mr. Brooks that he would continue to assign criminal cases to him and pointed out the great experience which they brought. It was this experience and training which had served Mr. Brooks so well in his latter years and it was this training which had instilled such confidence to Mr. Brooks, as was displayed in later years and which had given him the poise necessary to become the successful criminal lawyer that he did. Judge Traver said that in the passing of Mr. Brooks the bar had lost a loyal friend.

Able Attorney

Surrogate George F. Kaufman also spoke on the passing of Mr. Brooks. He said that no one will or can dispute his description of Frank W. Brooks as "one of the best and most able attorneys who ever graced the bar of this district." When Mr. Brooks first came to Ulster county it was to face "legal giants" and it was a discouraging task for any young lawyer to attempt to face such legal minds but Mr. Brooks had faced the task and made himself one of the best liked and most popular members of the bar and attained a position in the legal profession which was second to none. Mr. Kaufman referred to the attitude which Mr. Brooks always took toward the young attorneys who were beginning their life work. Always a helpful, encouraging and guiding influence, he said Mr. Brooks had been an inspiration to many of the younger members of the bar and he was always willing to give of his time and knowledge to them.

Judge G. D. B. Hasbrouck, with the permission of the court, offered the following resolution on the death of Edgar E. Ougheltree:

Resolution.

Whereas, the journey's end has been reached by our late associate at the bar, Edgar E. Ougheltree, and he has entered upon the great adventure. We may dry our tears for we know to whatever port his spirit may have sped, whether to the Christian one of his selection or of another, he goes without fear or reproach. We feel a just pride in the well rounded civic, domestic and public life he lived. That he devoted so much of it in the welfare of his fellow citizen and shaped his professional activities in accordance with the best standards of professional ethics; therefore be it

Resolved, that we deeply deplore the passing of our beloved brother and are moved with a profound sorrow thereby.

That we commend his life and character as an example of industry, probity and philanthropy, as an example to those of our profession at the bar and to the young who are contemplating entering upon a legal career.

That we extend to his daughters and son our sincerest sympathy in their sore bereavement and may they find balm and solace in the hope of the everlasting.

That the court be moved to spread these resolutions upon the records of the court.

That a copy of them be forwarded to the family by the secretary of the Ulster County Bar Association.

Hasbrouck's Tribute

After presenting the resolution to the court Judge Hasbrouck then paid the following tribute to the memory of Mr. Ougheltree:

"The death of Edgar E. Ougheltree occurred on August 16, this year. He was a native of the city of Kingston, educated in its schools, graduate of the Ulster Academy, student of the law, and graduated at the Albany Law School 54 years ago. Practiced law in the city of Kingston and moving to the Town of Esopus practiced there. In that town he held under election the office of Justice of the Peace to the satisfaction of the people. Moving back to Kingston he became assistant postmaster under the Hon. Walter N. Gill, postmaster at Rondout, and later was assistant postmaster at Kingston under postmasters Hon. George M. Brink, Walter C. Dolson, Hon. Walter P. Crane, and William C. DeWitt. Altogether his services as assistant postmaster covered a period of 24 years. He resigned his office after a long term of office in which he served the public with a rare competency. Then he became librarian of the Supreme Court Library here where his professional knowledge and his disposition to be accommodating satisfied the profession using the library and he continued as such until January 1, 1931. Upon coming into the library he was selected as secretary and treasurer for the Ulster County Chapter of the Red Cross and for several years did the arduous work of keeping its books and without compensation. Whether as assistant postmaster or treasurer of the Red Cross he handled considerable sums of money and rendered audited accounts which bespoke his competency, his exactitudes and his sterling honesty. Professionally he was a good sound lawyer. His clients trusted him implicitly and clung to him though the infirmities of age were upon him and the shadow of approaching death. He was indeed a rare soul, modest, to a fault, honest beyond question, possessed of the faculty of making and holding friends, as loyal a friend as ever drew breath. He was indeed a man—a lawyer in whose life service the bar and the people of this city may take pride in commending. We owe his memory the tribute due an upright, conscientious citizen, public servant and lawyer. Sorrow and joy are intermingled as we contemplate his life—sorrow over the passing of such a man, joy that he possessed and takes with him the reward which cannot be denied an exemplary citizen of unusually high character. The stilled yet revealing lines of Pollock press themselves for utterance:

Much beautiful and excellent and fair
Was seen beneath the sun
But naught was seen
More beautiful or excellent or fair
Than face of faithful friend
Fairest seen in darkest day.

County Attorney Roscoe V. Elsworth then offered the following resolution on the death of Henry R. DeWitt:

"Once more we are called upon to pay tribute of affection and respect to the memory of one long a member of the Ulster County Bar. Henry R. DeWitt was a kind, generous and faithful friend. He was a loyal and useful servant of the people. He was public spirited and took a deep interest in all public affairs. He was patriotic, having served eight years in the National Guard of the State and being honorably discharged as Second Lieutenant of Company M of this city in 1909.

Record of Service.
Henry R. DeWitt was born at Spring Valley, Rockland county, New York, on July 12, 1875, his father being the late Rev. Richard DeWitt. With the exception of the last year of his life, he was a resident of Ulster county from youth. His early education was in part received at Kingston Academy. He matriculated at Rutgers College in 1894 and graduated therefrom in 1898, with the degree of Bachelor of Arts. He was honored by the same institution with the degree of Master of Arts in 1901. He graduated from Albany Law School in the year 1900 and was admitted to the practice of the law in September of the same year. Early in his career he was called to public office, serving about four years as deputy county clerk of this county. He represented Ulster county in the New York Legislature as assemblyman from its First District in the years 1914, 1915 and 1916. He was then honored in the year 1916 with appointment to the office of clerk of the Board of Supervisors of Ulster county and he continued to serve in that office for 18 consecutive years, a record of service never approached in the history of another occupant of that office. During the years of his public service he also carried on the practice of law to such extent as time away from public duty would allow, never, however, permitting the obligations of office to suffer or be neglected for personal matters.

Such, in brief outline, is the story of the public life of Henry R. DeWitt, but to us, his friends and fellow members of the bar, these dates, these offices mean little. It is the man himself, the way he performed the duties to which he was called that give significance to his life. All that Henry R. DeWitt did, whether in public office or in the private practice of the law, we who knew him can honestly and happily say that he gave a brilliant demonstration of high-minded, honest, conscientious and able service."

Personal Tribute
Mr. Elsworth then paid his own personal tribute to Mr. DeWitt. He said that many younger members of the bar were not familiar with Mr. DeWitt's life as an attorney since most of his life and been devoted to public service. He referred to the service which Mr. DeWitt had rendered the county as member of assembly and later as clerk of the board of supervisors. He paid a high tribute to the ability of Mr. DeWitt as clerk of the board and said that had Mr. DeWitt devoted his life to the law with the same seriousness that he devoted his life to public service there was no doubt but that Mr. DeWitt would have been one of the leading trial attorneys of the bar for he was a man who made and kept friends easily. On county and municipal law Mr. DeWitt was an authority and as clerk of the board of supervisors he made himself familiar with his duties and his record as clerk of the board was frequently commended upon in very high terms by the state departments. As an accountant and in the keeping of the records of the county Mr. DeWitt had no rival.

Tribute of Friend
Former County Judge Joseph M. Fowler paid a high tribute to all three deceased members of the bar. "While Mr. DeWitt had not sought to devote his life to the law he had devoted himself wholeheartedly to public service. His record as clerk of the board of supervisors was one to be looked up to, the commendations which had come to him from the state departments on his records and in relation to his knowledge of county law and the general conduct of his office while clerk of the board spoke very highly of his ability. Mr. DeWitt made many friends, not only within the circles of the legal profession, but throughout the county and state and he was a man who kept his friends throughout life. In the loss of Mr. Brooks, Mr. Ougheltree and Mr. DeWitt the bar had lost three outstanding members whom the bar will greatly miss, said the Judge.

Harry H. Flemming also paid a tribute to the three members. E. E. Ougheltree he said had rounded out 50 years as a member of the bar. He was a good lawyer and had a very kindly way of dealing with the younger lawyers. Mr. Ougheltree he said was a man of the highest integrity. Mr. Brooks, who had rounded out 30 years as a member of the bar, had been referred to rightfully as an outstanding lawyer and Mr. DeWitt was a man well trained for his work, a man with a keen mind and it had well been said of him that if he had not devoted himself to public service but rather to his profession he would have stood out as one of the leading lawyers at the bar.

John M. Cashin, corporation counsel, paid a tribute to all three deceased members and said that one of the younger members of the bar he had greatly benefited from the "fatherly" advice and influence of Frank W. Brooks. It had been well said that Frank W. Brooks was "all that a lawyer should be."

Leroy Lounsbury also paid tribute to the three men. He said as a deputy clerk of the board of supervisors in his early days he had come to know Mr. DeWitt as a keen thinker, a hard worker and one who devoted himself tirelessly to his duties. As a very able assistant and advisor to the younger lawyers E. E. Ougheltree had been of very kindly figure and it was true that Frank W. Brooks had been an inspiration and valuable aid to every young lawyer.

Justice Schrick speaks
In directing that the resolutions offered be spread upon the minutes of the court and that copies be sent to the families of the deceased members, Justice Schrick said:

"We are gathered here to show our respect to three departed members of the Ulster County Bar. It was not my good fortune to know E. E. Ougheltree and Henry R. DeWitt so well as I knew Frank W. Brooks. It is difficult for me to speak of Mr. Brooks. I knew Mr. Brooks and appreciated his fine character and sterling worth to the fullest extent. He was like a member of my own family, in fact he was more like a second father to me. I was the beneficiary of Frank W. Brooks' aid and assistance for 25 years and anything that I may have achieved as a lawyer or on the bench I owe to him for in those 25 years he counseled me, aided me and instructed me. The kind words of Mr. Cook, Mr. Traver, Mr. Kaufman and others said about Mr. Brooks, I can attest are true."

He then directed the resolutions and remarks be spread upon the record of the court and copies sent to the families of deceased.

Sportsmen's Club to Hold Field Day Here On Sunday Morning

The annual "Sportsmen's Field Day" held each autumn by the Federated Sportsmen's Clubs of Ulster County will be held on Sunday, October 18 on the grounds of the Ulster County Gun Club about one mile out of Kingston on the road leading to the Ashokan Reservoir. As is usual at this event, the two Ulster county championships will be decided for another 12 months. At 11 a. m. sharp "The Ulster County Championship Team Race" will start. This race is divided into two sections and really decides two championships: The first a scratch section, the other on a handicap basis. Both sections carry with them handsome trophies. The team from the Ulster County Fish and Game Protective Association are the present title holders of the "scratch" section and the Rondout Valley Rod and Gun Club, Inc., who took the title from the Isaac Walton League of Ellenville last year are the title holders in the "handicap" section. Both of these teams will have to be at their best to hold their championship this year as several of the teams competing have proved that they are out to take them from them.

As soon as possible after the team race is decided, "The Ulster County Individual Championship" will be decided. This match is decided on a handicap basis—except as regards the actual winning of the county championship—this brings rather annually the best traps of Ulster county in the hot kind of competition for a long list of valuable merchandise prizes. The Lowther of the Saugerties Fish and Game Club is the present holder of the county championship. He will have to be at his best to hold this title as such crack shots as "Boe" Cotes, "Ray" Canalis, John Gosnie, "Norm" Baker and several others have decided that they are out to take it from him.

These matches are open to residents of Ulster county only. The races are open to teams of five, each who are bona fide members of the member clubs of the Federation. The traps will be open and ready for practice at 9 a. m. and anyone wishing to do any practicing before matches will have to do so early as matches will start promptly at 10 a. m. This is done so the shooters will have advantage of the light when it is at its best.

Following these matches the trap and skeet field will be open for informal shooting and a general good time and reunion of the sportsmen of Ulster county and their friends. The "Shogren System of Handicapping" which was used last year will be used again this year. Competition is hot while these matches are on, as each shooter is fighting for that extra point which will give him the championship and a handsome trophy and prize goes with it. After the smoke settles and the tension from competition has relaxed, comes a very pleasant part of the day. It is then old associations are renewed, new ones formed, and the problems of the day are dear to the hearts of all men are brought out and again settled over and settled for another year.

Cordial welcome is extended to members of the association and general public as well to attend. It is an excellent opportunity to meet many of your old friends and a lot of good fellows.

Kingston Cagers Hold First Workout

Their first workout, Thursday, the Kingston basketball team of the American League showed up well at Municipal Auditorium, bringing comment from Manager Frank McGraw: "This is one of the best drills since we organized in Kingston." Ben Husta the others on the floor were "Horace" Pip, Koehler, Tiny Brown, Phil Rabin, Ben Miller and Ed Halpern. Milton McDermott, brother of Bob and Mike Musica, other prospects for the Morganway lineup, were to arrive in Kingston today. Ernie Downer, Poughkeepsie team formerly of Cornell University and, may try out with Kingston, McGraw said. Tonight the basketballs will practice in the Y. M. C. A.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

New York, Oct. 16 (AP)—Stocks got back on the advancing trail in today's market and many pushed up fractions to 2 or more points to new recovery levels.

The trading pace was accelerated in the morning as a wide assortment of industrials stepped to the fore. Mild profit selling appeared later which served to slow the climb.

Near the final hour stocks, motors, copper, amusements, aircraft and farm implements were in the lead. Brokers said business optimism provided the principal buying inspiration.

Transfers approximated 2,000,000 shares.

Shares of Wright Aeronautical and Paramount First Preferred were ahead about 5 points each at their best. Among lesser gainers were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Anaconda, Kennecott, Copper, De Pasco, American Smelting, Howe Sound, Patino Mines, Warner Brothers, Paramount Common and Second Preferred, Remington Rand, Loew's, Twentieth Century-Fox, Pressed Steel Car Preferred, Douglas Aircraft, United Aircraft, Deere, International Harvester, Westinghouse, Mack Truck, Consolidated Edison, Equitable Building, Murray Corp., Union Pacific, John-Manville and American Telephone.

Tilting forward also were N. Y. Central, Pennsylvania, Baltimore & Ohio, Southern Pacific, Standard Brands, Baldwin Locomotive, Miami Copper, Electric Boat, General Electric, American International, Standard Oil of N. J. and North American.

Columbus, Ohio, expects to welcome at least 20,000 members of the Grange during the week of November 11-13, when the 70th annual session of the National Grange will convene in that city.

Barnet and Linton Will Play for Ball of American Legion

With two outstanding orchestras to furnish the music for the concert and dancing and eight all-star vaudeville acts, the 18th Annual Victory Ball of Kingston Post, American Legion, promises to set an all-time high in the entertainment field in this city. Preparations for the event, scheduled for Wednesday evening, November 11, at the Municipal Auditorium, are rapidly being completed. One of the biggest crowds ever to attend a social event in Kingston is expected to be on hand, judging from the public acceptance evidenced to date.

The two orchestras will be Jack Linton and his Clinton Ford Pavilion band and Charlie Barnet with his orchestra direct from the Glen Island Casino. The eight all-star acts have been booked through Harry Egan, whose reputation for bringing a brilliant array of talent to Kingston for past events, is very favorably known.

The committees in charge of the ball plan to run it off on a military precision basis. There will be a time for everything and everything will be on time. The concert will start promptly at 8 o'clock with Jack Linton's orchestra furnishing the music. The vaudeville acts will go on at 8:30 and will be completed at 10. Then Charlie Barnet will wave his baton and the dance will be on. The two orchestras will alternate in furnishing the music for dancing until closing time at 2 a. m. At 11 p. m. there will be a slight pause for the regular 11 o'clock Legion ceremony but this will only take about five minutes.

It is the wish of the committee to not only furnish the dance loving public with quality music but also with quantity as well. With two orchestras playing, the music will be practically continuous.

Elizabeth Smith To Get Sentence, Conviction Given

New York, Oct. 16 (AP)—Elizabeth Smith, pale and shaken, awaited in a jail cell today her call to court October 23 for sentence on a second degree manslaughter conviction in the slaying of her illegitimate son.

A jury of 12 men convicted her last night after debating for eight hours the state charge that she tossed the new born babe to its death from the roof of a Bronx apartment house last April.

The girl, who will be 19 next month, stood stunned as the verdict was announced. Then she shrieked, moaned and crumpled in a faint.

Edward Bianco, defense counsel, said there will be an appeal "if I have to pay for it myself." His associate, Miss Lillian Rock, said the conviction "is an example of what is to be expected of a jury of men trying a girl in a case like this."

The verdict carries a maximum prison term of 15 years.

The prosecution did not insist on a death penalty, asking only a conviction that would be both "merciful and just." Judge Harry Stackell, in his charge, gave the jury the choice of five verdicts, first or second degree murder, first or second degree manslaughter, and acquittal. The state contended that Miss Smith deliberately threw the baby to a concrete area away a few hours after she delivered the child unaided in the bathroom of her home. The defense held that pain and terror robbed her of control of her actions, that she fainted on the roof and the infant rolled from her arms.

Leading Methodist Editor Heard in Impressive Talk

Pastors and members of the congregations of the three Methodist churches of the city—the Clinton Avenue, Trinity and St. James—met in a union service at the Clinton Avenue church Thursday night to listen to an address by Dr. Harold Paul Sloan, who at the last general conference of the church was elected to the position of editor of the New York Christian Advocate, official weekly paper of the church. As editor of the Advocate Dr. Sloan occupies a position of power second to that of no man in the church, not even the bishops excepted. It was a former editor of the Advocate, the Rev. Dr. James M. Buckley, who during his incumbency was recognized as one of the powers in the church, an authority on constitutional law in the general conferences of the church and an outstanding editor of his time, religious or secular.

Those who listened to Dr. Sloan's impressive, inspirational address Thursday night and who are familiar with his educational qualifications and the fact that he has been a delegate five times to the general conferences of his church, recognized the fact that the official organ of the church was once more headed by a man of whom much could be expected and who could be looked to to lead the thought of the church in the traditional lines that made it a great power in the religious world.

Dr. Chassey, superintendent of the Kingston District, in introducing Dr. Sloan, said that the people of Kingston were fortunate in being able to have him with them for an evening, as demands upon his time were heavy. Dr. Sloan is scheduled to meet with the ministers of the Kingston District in the annual district meeting being held at Windham today and in view of that fact, said Dr. Chassey, had been induced to come to Kingston the night before and meet the united congregations.

Adjectives are almost meaningless in these days of superlatives, but it can be safely said that Dr. Sloan Friday night gave one of the most impressive and deeply inspirational addresses that has ever been heard in a Kingston pulpit—and there have been many notable ones in the years that have passed.

The speaker took as his theme, "The Kingdom of God," a kingdom both of this world and the world to come and "the master value of the centuries." He found in it the only "solution of the contradictory pressures of life."

Dr. Sloan found the world torn today with antagonistic theories of government from the totalitarian state, toward which there is such a trend in the world at present and which, said the speaker, "enslaves the soul of man," to anarchy, which doesn't want any law at all. All these theories and antitheses in forms of government and belief can be resolved and society unified, Dr. Sloan held, in only one way—through the working of the kingdom of God, "by making Jesus Christ master of the human life." Said he, "You can't have a brotherhood made up of people who are not brothers."

Possessing a keen sense of the dramatic and with a personal presence that lends itself to emphasize the effect of his words, Dr. Sloan held his hearers spellbound in that portion of his address that dealt with those who had made the supreme sacrifice for their faith, from the time of Christ down to the present day. He dramatized the closing scenes in the lives of some of the martyrs for faith, making reference to the crucifixion, the martyrdom of Ignatius as he faced the lions in the Coliseum, the experience of Jerome of Prague, when he returned to face death after being conscious stricken because when he witnessed the burning at the stake of John Huss he had not, like him, stood up and witnessed for his faith. "There are no bounds to the period of martyrdom," said the speaker, even to the present day when recent years have witnessed more martyrs in Russia than in many centuries.

In close connection with this thought was the speaker's reference to the fathers of a more recent day, the men of not so many generations ago, who returned by lantern light and on foot, in cases many miles, from attendance upon religious services, who "worked longer, had less, but had more of the spirit of love" than those of the present day.

In closing Dr. Sloan declared, "You can't build the kingdom of God on political force any more than you can on physical force."

Lee for Baumgartner Jimmy Lee of Schenectady will take the place of Frank Baumgartner on the amateur card at the Auditorium tonight. Baumgartner was injured while training yesterday.

Calls Roosevelt Election Disaster

John Spargo, authority on economic and political philosophy, was the main speaker at a Republican rally held in Firemen's Hall, Woodstock, Thursday night, about 200 people being present.

Dr. Jeanne Arnold, who was one of the active sponsors of the meeting called the gathering to order and presented Frederick Stang, president of the Ulster County Young Republican Club, who presided during the evening.

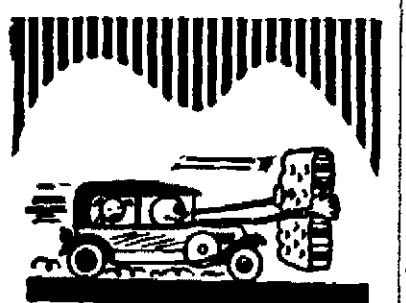

Mr. Spargo's address was a very complete analysis of the economic situation, based on the general theme that "The election of Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1932 was a disaster." Among those present and who addressed the meeting were Congressman Philip Goodwin, Senator Arthur H. Wicks and District Attorney Cleon B. Murray. Mrs. Elierts, a speaker from the National Republican Committee, also spoke.

Assemblyman J. Edward Conway and County Clerk James A. Simpson who had been attending the rally held at Saugerties, came in during the latter part of the meeting and were introduced to those present.

Parent-Teacher Associations

P. T. A. School No. 6.

Tuesday afternoon, October 13, the Parent-Teacher Association of School No. 6 was held, the president, Mrs. W. F. Hill, presiding, with 49 enthusiastic members attending.

Directly after the business session, Joseph Block, teacher of English at the high school, was introduced by the president. In an interesting way Mr. Block made vivid the conditions and affairs of several countries in Europe, which he visited this past summer. He elaborated on the point that travel broadened one's views of life.

A varied program, both entertaining and appropriate, was presented by the children of the intermediate grades under the supervision of Mrs. Ralph DeGraff, this program being: Recitation, "October," Betty Emmerick.

Piano duet, "Swaying Daffodils," Doris and Dorothy Fronfield. Exercise, "Ten Little Pumpkins," pupils from room 5, Richard Castlejones, Patricia Hart, Martin Gruber, Artemis Gattinas, Frank Ebelhiser, Betty Crough, Sam Forte, Ellen Olsen, Richard Jones, Catherine Neale.

Original compositions, "Christopher Columbus," Joan Parslow, Brian Owens and Lorraine Gardner. In interest of the membership drive a very appropriate poem, "How About You?" was rendered by Mrs. Van Gonsic, teacher of room 2. In the absence of the membership chairman, Mrs. Ralph Harper, the president gave the following reports: "To date, 194 mothers, 37 fathers, and 15 teachers have enrolled. It is encouraging to note that each year the enrollment of the fathers increases."

Another report, that of the state conference held at the Governor Clinton Hotel, October 6-7, was admirably given by the president. November 5, a county institute will be held at Walkill. The Mrs. Hill, Rooms, Matthews, Harper and Froese will represent this unit. Arrangements are being made for a food sale to be held at the school Friday, October 23.

Programs for the school year were distributed and proved to be most attractive, receiving the five stars awarded by the state at the recent conference held in this city. The press book, representing unit No. 6, received the award of four stars at the convention, and is now available for inspection at the school, Mrs. George Kenny being the program chairman and Mrs. Monroe Soward, chairman of publicity. Roll call by rooms indicated that Mrs. Swarthout's and Miss Bailey's room had the largest number of parents present. These rooms were awarded the attendance banner for the month of October.

The members of this unit are looking forward with keen anticipation to Tuesday evening, November 19, when they plan to entertain the fathers of this district.

At The Theatres

Today

Broadway: "Love Begins at 20." The jittery Hugh Herbert, most peculiar of the screen comics, plays the role of a harassed husband in the laugh drama at the Broadway, a pert, rambling bit of nonsense boasting a good cast and fine direction. Mr. Herbert, as expected, is the main player and the burden of keeping the show alive rests on his nervous person from start to finish. He does a good job in a difficult assignment because some of the play's situations are strangely lacking in humor and Mr. Herbert is at times hard pressed for adequate laugh material. All in all the show is a combination of comedy, romance and thrills. Warren Hull and Patricia Ellis are featured.

Kingston: "Last of the Mohicans." Indian war drums beat once again on the motion picture screen in this adaptation from James Fenimore Cooper's classic of the red man and his last stand against the sure and certain domination of the whites. The play is alive with gallantry, action, excitement and romance and of special interest is the attack of the French forces on Fort William Henry, the savagery of the Huron tribes whipped into a frenzy by war dances and liquor, the escape of Hawkeye in his canoe with a stream full of Indians in close pursuit and the battles, the intrigue and the death struggle between French, British, American and Indian forces tend to create an atmosphere of danger and courage. A cast of thousands features Randolph Scott, Henry Wilcoxon, Binnie Barnes, Bruce Cabot, Heather Angel, Philip Reed, Robert Barrat, Willard Robinson and Hugh Buckler. Here is a picture that should prove of value to adults and children alike. "Last of the Mohicans" has been made into a motion picture before but never as interestingly or satisfactorily as this excellent screen classic.

Orpheum: "The Bride Walks Out" and "Guns and Guitars." What happens when a well-salaried girl marries a boy who doesn't earn as much as she does and who insists she give up work for housekeeping is discussed and discussed on the Orpheum screen in the first attraction, a comedy romance with Barbara Stanwick and Gene Raymond featured. Others in the cast include Robert Young, Ned Sparks and Helen Broderick. An RKO-Radio picture produced by Edward Small. "Guns and Guitars" is the other feature with Gene Autry, the singing cowboy, starred.

Tomorrow

Broadway: "Anthony Adverse." Hervey Allen's lengthy treatise on illegitimacy, novelized into one of the best selling and adventurous books of this decade, would naturally find the screen and be done with a sweep and a glamour the motion picture alone can offer. So Anthony Adverse, the compelling story of a little boy born out of wedlock and his growth into an arresting, vital personality, emerges on the screen in the person of Fredric March. The novel and the picture is pure fiction, laid against a background of historical fact and the action sweeps through a regal Italy, the glory of France in the time of the rising Napoleon, and even carries off into the tropics where Anthony Adverse goes in quest of adventure and learning. The screen version of Anthony is a much stronger character than the one found in the pages of Mr. Allen's popular book and the motion picture ends when the history of Anthony is only a little better than half complete. The producers discovered that the fateful, exciting life of Anthony Adverse was far too long for an ordinary motion picture. A cast of thousands, beautiful settings and brilliant direction by the young Mervyn LeRoy makes this show an achievement of real merit. Fredric March, Olivia de Havilland, Anita Louise, Claude Rains, Steffi Duns, Ralph Morgan, Donald Woods and Gale Sondergaard are among the important names in the cast. A don't miss attraction.

Python Has Legs, Wiry

Jaws for Bolting Food
Even a snake charmer might overlook the fact that a python has a pair of legs.

The limbs are small, states W. H. Shippen, Jr. in the Washington Star, and only appear externally on large pythons and boas, behind the center of their bodies.

Yet the claw-like legs are clear proof, zoologists say, that the python in some remote period of its evolution, ran on all fours instead of crawling.

This Indian python is one of the most beautiful of snakes. He is about 10 feet long, weighs 70 pounds or so, and may grow to twice this length before he attains his full development.

The python is popular with lady snake charmers of the circus. These snakes are readily tamed and make amiable pets. Quite a few charmers declare their pets form a personal attachment for them.

Others say this is not affection so much as preference for an expert rather than an inept handler.

The regal python, sometimes grows to a length of 30 feet, and is capable of killing a man, and a large pig or antelope. The python and the boa kill by crushing their victims in flexible, muscular coils. Elastic hinges on their jaws, and arrangement of their inward-curving teeth enable them to swallow large mammals whole.

WEBSTER FAVORED SIMPLE SPELLINGS

Lexicographer Also Sought Uniform Pronunciation.

New York.—If Noah Webster, famous for his dictionaries, had had his way, "character" would be spelled "karakter," "chorus" would be "korus," and "machine" would be "masheen." Dr. Irvin C. Shoemaker reveals in "Noah Webster, Pioneer of Learning," just published by the Columbia University Press. As early as 1789 Webster, who was one of the first to advocate a universal system of American education, urged that all superfluous silent letters be omitted, so that the words "bread," "give," "built," "meant" and "friend" would be spelled "bred," "giv," "bilt," "ment," and "frend," says Dr. Shoemaker, who investigated hundreds of early colonial school texts, dictionaries and spellers now out of print. According to Webster's plan, "grief" would become "greef," "key" would be "kee," "draught" would be "draft," and "laugh" would be "laf."

Although few of his extreme "simplified" spellings remained in dictionaries after 1860, Webster's zeal for reform marked the beginning of the controversy over the respective merits of American English and English English.

Fired by Patriotism.

Webster, said to have been fired with patriotic zeal at the close of the Revolution, gave as one of his reasons for the new spelling the wish "to make a uniform pronunciation possible among people of all ranks." The simplification, he held, would also create a national language which would prove a bond of national unity and would make it necessary to print American books in the United States. It would reduce the number of letters to such an extent that one page in eighteen would be saved in the average book, and would aid children and adults in learning the language.

"At the close of the Revolutionary war, differences between America and England were sharply accentuated, each country laying claim to superiority," Dr. Shoemaker points out. "Among the differences was that which existed in the language spoken in the two countries. In consequence a hue and cry was raised which was out of all proportion to the slight difference which actually existed. Webster deplored the fact that in many parts of America, people were attempting to copy the English phrases and pronunciation."

"Of the spirit of his time and of the newborn nation, Webster stands to a unique degree as a symbol. The growing consciousness of Americanism was more rampant in him than in any of his contemporaries. He looked upon a uniform language as a tie that would further political and social harmony, and that should the confederation become disrupted, even then, a uniform speech among the parts would be to the advantage of all concerned.

Sought Uniformity.

"Time after time Webster stated that he looked to the schools for aid in bringing about the uniformity of language which he deemed essential to the healthy political life of the Republic. Because of Webster's many activities, the intrinsic value of his texts and dictionaries, and the aggressive business methods which were employed to increase the sale of his texts, a great interest was aroused in the study of language and the day was hastened when the study of English occupied a prominent position in the curricula of American schools.

"Webster's extreme reforms were not introduced in his speller, but the reforms that were introduced in this work were generally those that have been adopted. It is probably due to Webster's efforts to reform the language that the English language in America is more uniform than it is in England or than is the language spoken by the people living in various sections of any other large country. Perhaps for the same reason, pronunciation in America tends to follow spelling, and spelling is generally more simple in this country than in England."

Dr. Shoemaker, formerly a member of the faculty of New York university, is associate professor of English in the Ball State Teachers college of Muncie, Indiana. He has also taught English in the public schools of Indiana.

Ancient Camp Site

Yielding Skeletons
Mt. Clemens, Mich.—An Indian encampment showing traces of separate occupations—two of them during prehistoric times—is being excavated near Mt. Clemens by Dr. E. F. Greenman, University of Michigan anthropologist. More than 65 skeletons have been taken out, all from the latest settlement, about 1800. Two other encampments are from 500 to 1,000 years old, the professor stated. One appears to have been made by the Algonquin Indians, who bored holes in the skulls of their dead.

"Carrying a Pike in '49"
The expression "carrying a pike in '49" recalls that the Forty-nine was one of the Irish rebellions against English rule. It was unsuccessful. The pike is a weapon similar to a lance, and pikes as well as other crude weapons were borne by the rebels. To say that a man carried a pike in '49 means that he was one of the rebels. One of the great songs that came out of the period runs, "The pikes shall be together at the rising of the moon."

Pheasant Season Opens on Monday

Open season for pheasants will begin next Monday and any hunter who goes afield and happens to be fortunate enough to bag a large bird which wears a band upon its leg need not become alarmed that he has shot a marked bird. Rather on the contrary he should feel elated and should immediately make known such a kill by reporting it to the Conservation Department for these banded pheasants are a part of an experiment which the department is conducting.

At a recent meeting of the Federated Sportsman's Clubs of Ulster county the department sent a communication asking that the federation co-operate in assisting the department to compile statistics in regard to whether range bred birds or brooder birds were more prolific.

In conducting this experiment the Bureau of Game of the Conservation Department has released 90 banded birds in the county. Any hunter who shoots such a banded pheasant is requested to remove the band and send it to the Bureau of Game at Albany together with the date and place where the bird was shot. This is a part of the experimental work which the department is conducting.

The pheasant season this year is "from the third Monday in October to the second Saturday immediately following such Monday except that on the Sunday which occurs during such season pheasants should not be taken. In this locality the day limit is two and not to exceed six in a season.

The Aryans

The Aryans are descendants of the primitive people who, it is believed migrated to Europe and India from central Asia. They were the parent stock of the Hindus, Persians, Greeks, Latins, Celts, Anglo-Saxons and some other races and were originally the Iranian or Asiatic division of this people. In Europe the Aryans include blonds and brunettes, or the xanthochroic and the melanochroic divisions.

Banks and insurance companies own about 90,000 farms. These were obtained chiefly through foreclosure proceedings during depression years.
